This fire engine is going green!

The Cedar Hill Fire Department recently took delivery of a Pierce PUC (Pumper, Ultimate Configuration).

According to Fire Chief John Ballard, this unit gets double the gas mileage of a conventional engine.

And it can fight a fire on the move. It is capable of pumping and rolling, more effective on a grass fire near the roadway, for example.

The pump that feeds the fire hoses is mounted between the frame rails which makes it lower and farther forward, allowing a shorter wheel base, hence more maneuverability. Great for tight residential streets.

This engine is equipped with a Compressed Air Foam System (CAFS). CAFS mixes air and foam with water to make a more effective fire extinguishing agent. Cedar Hill engines all carry 500 gallons of water and 20 gallons of Class A foam.

Lower ongoing costs

Safety, serviceability, and operating costs were all major factors in deciding to purchase this unit. Pierce trucks are among the safest. The cabs are designed to withstand a roll over without collapsing. And it is equipped with air bags. The step-in height for this truck is about 3" lower for easier, safer boarding. The windshield is lower, allowing better visibility for the driver.

and maintenance of a generator.

The truly new feature of this design is the cab interior. The overall visibility is improved. It is set up to carry five personnel in seats moved inboard to give the firefighters more shoulder room.

Even maintenance will cost less. Daily fluid checks can be done without tilting the cab. The valves for the discharges are configured around a walk in area for quicker repair.

Lighting on the truck is 12-volt which saves the cost, weight

This unit has much more storage area than the engine it replaces, but has a lower profile. Almost all equipment is stored in compartments, including the ground ladders.

Apartments are going green

Now apartment
lives can recycle too!
Beginning in August,
apartment managers will be offering recycling services
in cooperation with the City and Waste Management.

Every apartment can request an 18-gallon bin. 8-yard Waste Management Recycle containers will be strategically located for all apartments.

It's easy, no sorting required. Most paper, packaging and other materials are recyclable. Unacceptable items are pizza boxes, dirty food containers, plastic grocery bags, electronics, ceramics or dishes, garbage, light bulbs, window glass or yard waste.

The harvest of this summer's Community Garden project has been a lot more than tomatoes and squash. Traffic has increased inside the library and many new relationships have been planted as neighbors learned from each other.

The Cedar Hill community garden pilot program at the library has been a great success, according to Library Director Kim Risner. It has been instrumental in developing a sense of community among the participating gardeners.

"They watch and care for others' gardens and develop friendships", she said. "The gardens have drawn intergenerational participation, and created a familial bond as all members of the family interact in this gardening experience".

Many gardeners have also deepened their relationship with the library. They feel more comfortable visiting with staff, using the library, and participating in other programs. We are getting more input about customer needs. One gardener recommended books of interest to the community, and a desire to see self-check-out stations.

When people feel engaged and that their voice is important they often take a deeper interest in the success of an organization.

Gardeners share their produce with the staff, attend Master gardening classes, and pot luck meals. For some gardeners this has been a rewarding learning experience, because of their inexperience in growing plants. By teaching these skills the library is promoting environmental sustainability and lifelong learning.

For the fall season, current gardeners have priority in signing a contract but there should be a few beds available.

Applications will be made available for new gardeners in September.

Growing at the library

E-books here!

E-books have arrived at Zula B. Wyllie Public Library. The 3M Cloud platform is brand new on the library scene. Your library is the first in the state to roll out this program.

Library cardholders can download a book on up to 5 devices, to read almost anywhere. the 3M Cloud Library app is available for iPhone and iPad as well as Android devices. cardholders can use the discovery station in the library to download e-books directly to their account.

The library is preparing some 3M E-Readers for checkout to Cedar Hill Library cardholders. The E-Readers are expected to rollout in August.

Learn a new lingo with Mango

Do you want to learn a foreign language? Mango Language program is now available on the library website.

Introduction classes will be offered this fall. Dates are yet to be determined. For more information please contact the library at 972.291.7323.

Growing more at the Library

Your library has increased adult program attendance by 204% compared to last year.

There have been 24 new adult-focused programs added in 2011. Efforts started in October, 2011 to reach out to the adults in the community and determine what programs best fit their interests and needs.

The community garden has been a significant contributor to the increase. People attend Master Gardener Classes, visit the library to care for their garden and then use the other library services.

Programs geared towards parents during children's programs have opened up a new adult audience.

Computer classes offer new topics, such as how to use Facebook and other social networks. Classes help sell items on eBay, and have more fun with photos.

The new Cedar Hill Genealogical Society has offered research classes.

Soon, the library will offer computer classes geared towards E-readers and the new collection of e-books available.
